

North Pocono

An active Boy Scout since first grade, Joseph Antosh led his fellow Scouts in refurbishing an old Roaring Brook Twp. building to use as part of a recycling program.

The project helped Joseph achieve his greatest accomplishment to date, the rank of Eagle Scout. He is a member of Boy Scout Troop 132.

In his senior year, Joey takes challenging classes like pre-engineering, college prep math and applied engineering principles. And even with a full course load, he achieved honor roll status this quarter.

Joey is one of three students who will represent North Pocono at the NEPA Bridge Building Competition.

Joey is a four-year member of the Trojan Band and concert band, a two-year member of the rifle team, and participated in the North Pocono Steel Drum Project his freshman and junior years.

Outside of school, Joey is a volunteer firefighter with the Elmhurst-Roaring Brook Volunteer Fire Company. He received the Rookie of the Year Award in 2014 and a five-year service pin this past January.

He is senior altar server at St. Eulalia's Church and is employed by the Roaring Brook Twp. Road Department.

Post-graduation, Joey will attend Johnson College to major in heating, ventilation and air conditioning technology.
