
Student of the Week: Joey Antosh

North Pocono High School's Student of the Week!

Name: Joey Antosh

Hometown: Roaring Brook Township

Parents: Brenda and Joe Antosh

Grandparent(s): Albert and Barbara Samuel; Ann and the late Joseph Antosh

Q. What is your senior project? Please include a brief description.

A. I refurbished the Roaring Brook Twp. Municipal structure from the original days of the township's beginning. I replaced the roof and damaged siding, installed new doors and windows and painted. The township now uses it for recycling supplies storage. The project also served as an Eagle Scout Project.

Q. Do you participate in any school sports?

A. I participate in marching band and I am on the rifle team.

Q. Have you received any honors?

A. I earned my Eagle Scout award with Boy Scout Troop 132, and I was named Rookie of Year 2013 by the Elmhurst-Roaring Brook Volunteer Fire Company.

Q. Are you involved in any community activities?

A. I am a volunteer firefighter for the Elmhurst-Roaring Brook Volunteer Fire Company, and I am an alter server at St. Eulalia's Roman Catholic Church.

Q. What is your favorite class and why?

A. My favorite class is Applied Engineering Principals. It's challenging and it's an interesting subject which is far more hands-on than other classes. Plus, it teaches me skills that I can use throughout my life.

Q. Who has been your favorite/most influential teacher and why?

A. Mr. Davis. I had him for two years of high school English (11th and 12th grades), and he helped me better understand a subject I struggled with and made me a better writer. English was my least favorite subject, but having Mr. Davis really helped me like it better.

Q. What is your fondest high school memory?

A. Participating in the rifle team.

Q. What are your future plans? If attending college, please include school and field of study.

A. I plan to attend Johnson College to study HVAC technology.
